

Message from The New President of the Society

I thank the Editorial Board for giving me this opportunity of sending my greetings and extending my felicitations to all members of the Aero Medical Society of India. The Society has made rapid advances from the time of its inception and has made significant contributions to scientific knowledge in India and abroad under the illustrious leadership of some of our pioneers in the field. From a modest beginning, it has grown into a scientific body of repute.

No modern Aviation Industry can progress without a close medical support. It is heartening to note that scientists of the Aero Medical Society of India have extended this support without any reservation. By their keen understanding of human aspects of Aviation, they have contributed a great deal to flight safety not only in the Armed Forces but also in civil aviation.

I am quite confident that with the dedicated and selfless work by all members of the Society, we will continue rendering this service as heretofore.

I wish them all happiness and success in their future endeavours and a glorious future.
